SHIP SUPPLY

Dear Customer and Business partner

Welcome to the Wrist catalogue 2016. Thank you for taking an interest in our products. We hope that you here will find inspiration and ease of doing business as we aim to be your very best supplier.

Wrist has grown considerably the past years and we are excited about the future. Excited about how to best enable your smooth operation e.g. through digital solutions. In 2016 and 2017 we will invest significant resources to make our business more 'omni-channel' – stay tuned.

Robert Steen Kledal

As always these pages are also dedicated to the seafarers - those brave people and, often, unsung heroes who enable global commerce and transport up to 90% of world trade; now also while having to deal with pirates, refugee-rescues and of course the absence from family and loved ones. We salute the seafarers as we carry out our mission of giving expert care to each ship & off-shore location – and we are pleased and honored to work with and sponsor organisations like ISWAN when they for example celebrate the day of the seafarer on June 25th, or award 'Seafarers' center of the year'.

We wish you a wonderful year ahead and thank you for using Wrist Ship Supply.

R. S. Kledal

PORK PRODUCTION IN DENMARK

Danish pigs are world leaders. These include ordinary pigs, free-range pigs and organic pigs

For more than 100 years, production of pigs and pork has been an important asset for Denmark, both in terms of employment and exports. About 90 percent of Danish pork is exported and it is therefore important for the country's balance of trade and economy.

Danish pig production is among the world leaders in terms of production, quality, food safety, animal welfare and traceability, which is a major reason why Denmark is among the world's largest exporters of pork.

BREEDS AND HYBRIDS

The basis for producing healthy pigs that grow well and quickly, have many piglets and have a good meat quality is breeding. In Denmark we have a common breeding system, 'DanAvl', which organizes efforts to constantly improve these and other characteristics.

Danish pig production is based on three breeds:

Danish Landrace, Danish Yorkshire and Danish Duroc. These are crossed in different ways to produce fattening pigs, so the good qualities of the different breeds are combined.

The breeding animals are kept in special breeding farms, where farmers can buy the animals for their own production or in the form of semen for the artificial insemination of their own sows.

ABOUT SEAFOOD GLAZING

Frozen seafood products are very vulnerable. During cold storage, frozen seafood products can develop surface drying or dehydration. Excessive drying leads to damage called “freezer burn”. To prevent this, frozen fish is glazed before it is put in frozen storage.

Glazing is usually carried out by dipping or spraying frozen seafood products with potable water. Dipping is carried out by placing the frozen product in a tank of water for a certain period of time. The advantages of this method are that it is relatively simple and cost-effective. A disadvantage is that the glaze coverage can be inconsistent. Spraying is done by using purpose-designed equipment to spray water over the product. This results in a consistent glaze coverage, but its disadvantage is that it is a relatively expensive method.

Some products compensate for the weight of the water by packing an extra quantity of fish into the box and not charging the customer. This is called ‘net compensated glazing’, and means that the customer pays for 10 kg of product and receives 11 kg (10 kg of fish and 1 kg of 10% glazing). A thicker glazing also has the effect of decreasing the price per gross kilogram.

Norwegian cold smoked salmon

1. The Salmon

Farmed in open sea cages in the deep clean fjords of Norway. When the salmon is ready it is harvested, slaughtered, packed on ice and sent to the smoke house.

2. Filleting

Upon arrival the fish is inspected, to ensure it meets the stringent quality demands. It is then carefully filleted, trimmed and boned. And if required the skin is also removed at this stage.

3. Salting

Now for the salting. Traditionally done by hand, where you carefully sprinkle salt on the top of the fillet. Today you still salt by hand, but more modern methods are also used; salt injection, where a salt brine is injected into the fillet and combi salted, where you inject and salt by hand. The salting method depends on the final product. Salting by hand gives a deep red colour and dense texture, whereas salt injection gives a slightly less red colour and a little looser texture. Combi is somewhere in between.

4. Maturing/Smoking

After salting the fish it is left to mature for 4-8 hours after which it is smoked using beech wood, for around 8 hours at max. 27° celsius. Then it is removed from the smoke oven and immediately cooled to 2° celsius. Both maturing time and smoking time vary depending on the final product.

5. Slicing/Packing

When the smoked fish is cooled it enters the slicing and packing department, here, if required, the fillet is cut into slices of approx. 25 gr, placed on a board and packed into a foil or bag. The final packaging can be anywhere from 50 gr packs and up. If no slicing is required the whole fillet is placed on a board and packed into a foil or bag. The salmon is then packed into cartons and is ready to leave the smoke house.

ORIGINAL DANISH PASTRY

SWEET & CRISPY JUST THE RIGHT WAY

The Original Danish pastry was invented in 1843 when a Copenhagen baker had been on a trip to Vienna. He got the inspiration from a crisp, croissant-like cake.

Back in Copenhagen he started working on his own version of the pastry and added a tasty remoncefilling. It is on the basis of this sweet story that the Danes continuously develop the Danish pastry with their passion for high quality and baking craft ingenuity.

The essential secret behind the original Danish pastry is the amount of dough layers, which makes the pastry rise beautifully and ensures a perfectly crisp texture. The result can be smelt, seen, heard and not least tasted. Original Danish pastry should be an experience for all your senses!

Over the years Denmark has become world-famous for its pastries, which is why it is also simply known as a Danish. As a matter of fact Danish pastry is Denmark's most famous contribution to the culinary world!

Danish pastry usually comes as either single sized or as bars or tarts for several people. But as the trends change it has become available in popular mini versions too.

Taste the difference: Delicious Danish ice cream

Danish ice cream tradition has its roots in the small creameries scattered across the Danish countryside - and it continues until today, even though most of Denmark's ice cream production has evolved from small creameries to larger production sites: the typical ice cream production in Denmark is still based on skilled craftsmanship and the use of real fresh cream.

The making of good quality ice cream requires expertise and premium ingredients. After careful blending and pasteurization, the raw ice cream mixture is left to mature. This maturation process balances out the different ingredients in relation to each other and allows all the delicious flavours to develop. The matured ice cream mixture is carefully churned in order to make the texture deliciously creamy.

The result is a smooth soft ice cream which can be further enriched with fruit, chocolate, nuts or other quality ingredients. Simply delicious!

THE ORIGIN OF COFFEE

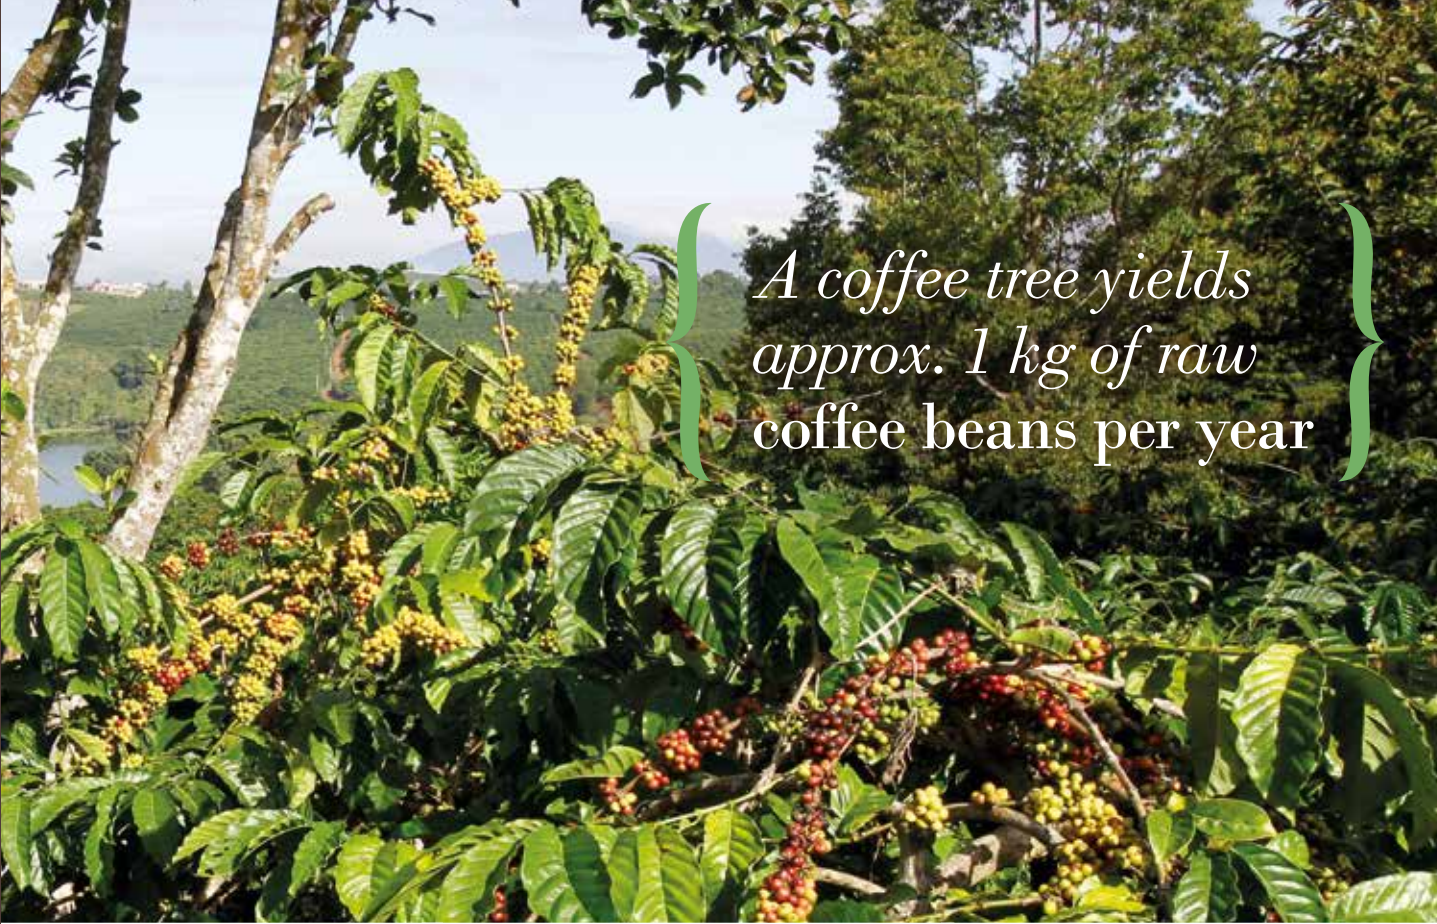

Coffee's exciting journey from bean to cup

The Danes are the world's fourth largest coffee drinking nation with 3.4 cups a day per inhabitant. But the road from plant to consumption is long and filled with countless challenges and opportunities.

Coffee beans are seeds from coffee berries, which grow on coffee trees and look like ripe cherries. Coffee trees are grown in the tropical belt around the equator and thrive in temperatures of 17-23 degrees Celsius. They require plenty of rain and fertile soil. Growing, care and harvest are very demanding and together with the climate have decisive influence on the taste and quality of the coffee. The beans do not ripen at the same time and harvest takes place continuously – either by hand or by machines. Following the harvest the berries, that each contain two beans, are rinsed, dried and husked

There are more than 60 different coffee varieties. The most well-known are Arabica and Robusta. For Arabica you distinguish between washed Arabica (highland coffee grown 600-1,800 metres above sea level) and unwashed Arabica (lowland coffee grown below 600 metres above sea level). Washed Arabica has an aromatic, sour and rich taste. Unwashed Arabica is mild, rounded and soft, while Robusta tastes strong, spicy, bitter and sweet.

A coffee tree yields approx. 1 kg of raw coffee beans per year

COFFEE PRODUCTION

Each coffee gets its own unique taste and characteristic through the blending of different types of coffee beans, roasting and grinding, which need to be adjusted to the brewing method. The coffee beans are roasted in order to get their characteristic colour, aroma and taste. Both the roasting temperature and roasting time have decisive importance for the taste of the coffee. The darker the coffee bean is roasted, the stronger and more aromatic the taste becomes.

After roasting the beans are either packed in bags with whole beans or they are ground. The grinding degree depends on the subsequent brewing method. Coarsely ground coffee is used for i.a. press pots and bulk brewers whereas fine-grade coffee is used for i.a. espresso and fresh brew machines.
