

My Internship at Wrist

Cecilie Uth Blumow
Procurement Intern

“

Work not only builds professional skills – it also fosters personal growth. My best advice to students is to seek experiences that help you better understand yourself in a professional context.

Growth Through Hands-on Experience

My journey began at Aalborg University, studying Global Business Engineering. I quickly realized that simply sitting behind a school desk, immersed in theory, was not enough to make me discover my future career aspirations. I craved hands-on experience, believing that actual work experience would fuel my growth beyond only theoretical knowledge. That is why I joined Wrist, eager to apply my skills and discover what I want to do with my career.

Student Assistant to Procurement Intern

I began at Wrist as a student assistant in Business Intelligence. As I became more engaged in our operations and processes, I proposed to write a semester project focused on improving inventory management and procurement efficiency across our North American branches. With the support of my team, my colleagues recognized the potential in the idea and offered me an internship in the Global Procurement department. During my internship, I was able to contribute my perspectives on:

- The monitoring of procurement KPIs to track general performance
- The management of sign-off processes in local branches for global decisions

Internship Opportunities in Houston

As part of my internship, I was given the opportunity to visit our team in Houston. The trip was rich with learning opportunities, including the following:

- Connecting and fostering work relationships with global colleagues
- Shaping my understanding of global processes and addressing challenges in different contexts

In Houston, sharing an office with 50 colleagues gave me first-hand insight into daily operations and local challenges – insights that are less clear when collaborating remotely. Seeing the value of building relationships with global colleagues helped me expand my network and support my personal and professional growth.

”

Meeting Cecilie in person strengthened collaboration and offered her a deeper understanding of how we operate across regions, enhancing both communication and alignment in our global operations

- Marco Rohde, Vice President Procurement, Wrist North America

Internships at Wrist

Moved by People

We progress to be a global and ambitious industry leader and an attractive work place with a constructive work culture.

We focus on:

- Employee satisfaction and well-being
- Work-life balance
- Attractive work conditions

We provide great opportunities for:

- Personal growth
- Career development
- Feedback and dialog

Making Wrist a Great Place for Interns

We invest in the future talent of students through:

- Teamwork
- Supportive learning environment
- Training and development
- Personal and professional growth
- Global networking opportunities

We prioritize personal learning and development through:

- Job assignments
- Talent management
- Internal and external training opportunities

Want to be an intern at Wrist?:

- Send your unsolicited application to:
job@wrist.com
- Scan the QR code to learn more about internships at Wrist

